J & D Official Cites Factors Contributing To Delinquency

Roland B. Murphy, Director of the Tenth Judicial District of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court services, in a recent address to the Woman's Club of Appomattox focused on the relationship of juvenile delinquency to rapid social changes, the breakdown of family-life styles, and the change of moral and religious values in today's society.

Citing the development of the first legal Juvenile Court services in 1899 in Cook County, Illinois credit was given to Jane Adams and Julian Lathrop, social reformers of the famed "Hull House" in Chicago.

Murphy emphasized that the two functions of the court is to intervene to protect children whose welfare or normal development is endangered on those who lack parental care, and to offer guidance and rehabilitation to youths (under the age of eighteen) who are charged with legal offenses.

Rehabilitation and community treatment is stressed in working with those children whose behavior may endanger the health and welfare of themselves and of others.

"Generally defined delinquency is any behavior which a given community at a given time considers in conflict with its best interest," Murphy said.

"A primary factor in the development of anti-social attitudes and desires by juveniles is overprotection or underprotection by significant adults in their lives," added Murphy.

"A contributing factor to the social phenomenon, Murphy indicated is attributed to the discontinuity of traditional life styles as rapid social changes leave feelings of lonliness and emotional insecurity in their wake. More and more young people react to our fragmented society as they enter the threshold of adulthood without the knowledge and skies necessary to enable them to be contributing members of our society.

The reaction of the young to such feelings of inadequancy is often follow the leader in the path of violence and distruction. The need for foster home or group home care for juvenile delinquents was cited by Murphy as a major need in most court service areas across the commonwealth.

Women's Club members were honored with a tour of the new Juvenile Court officers after the meeting adjourned.

Marketing Card

proper handling of the marketing cards and the consequences for failing to do so. The regulations require that tobacco be sold on the card issued for the farm where the tobacco was grown. The card may not be used to sell tobacco grown on any other farm. Any disregard of these provisions is a violation subject to marketing quota penalty, quota reduction, and possible criminal prosecution," stated Rudy, "and misuse of marketing cards has been by far the most frequent violation the past several years." Rudy further commented that "most producers involved in these violations could have avoided the penalties and embarrassment by going to their county office and negotiating a leasing agreement."

When producers receive their cards in the mail they should check to see that the information on the card is correct. When tobacco is weighted in at the warehouse the card will stay with the tobacco and be returned with the check and a copy of the sale bill. "Always check to see that the proper pounds have been taken off the card," cautioned Rudy. "This is the producer's responsibility.," He further added, "keep the card in your possession at all times except when you have tobacco on the floor, and turn the card back in to the county office as soon as you are finished selling."

It is understood that warehouses began receiving tobacco on November 15 in preparation for the auction sales. Any producer who has not received his marketing card should contact the county ASCS office.

Farm Pond Stocking Discontinued

In an economy move, the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U.S. Department of Interior has announced that they are phasing out all farm pond stocking. Fish for pond stocking will now have to be obtained from private sources.

Before a pond is stocked, any existing fish should be removed by draining the pond. Generally, about 350 Bluegill and 150 Redear Sunfish, or 500 Bluegill fingerlings per suface acre are needed, also 50 Largemouth Bass fingerlings per surface acre are needed to feed on the Bluegill and prevent Bluegill over population. Channel Catfish can be stocked with Bass and Bluegill at about 50 per surface acre. If catfish is the only fish to be stocked, use about 100 per surface acre.

The local office of the U.S.D.A. Soil Conservation Service has information on pond construction, fish pond management, and pond stocking. Also, a listing of commercial fish hatcheries is available at the SCS Office.

Education Classes

five dollars per person. Adults who enroll in the class will be scheduled for participation. It is anticipated that two groups will be scheduled from 7-8 and two groups from 8 - 9. Definite procedures for using physical education facilities and rules for participating in the class will be explained at the first class session. Any further information concerning the class may be obtained by calling Gordon Bragg at 352-7146 or R. B. Carter at 352-8722.

A sum of $250.00 will be given to the Appomattox Chamber of Commerce to for use in defraying expenses of printing publicity brochures, and council voted to support employees who are members of the National Guard or military reserve.

Council discussed various other administrative and operational details prior to adjournment.

Town Council

The last action is an effort to cut down the town's expenses when they must turn off the main water supply to houses which are undergoing plumbing repairs or maintenance.

In other action council voted to co-sponsor, with the Appomattox Junior Woman's Club, the 1975 Historic Appomattox Railroad Festival in 1975. The festival is tentively scheduled for the first week end in October.

Council denied a request tendered by David Nash which would allow a development of Nash's sewage access, and in a separate but related action, heard a request from James A. Nolen concerning the relocating of the town's east sewage lagoon.

Action on a motion by councilman Ronald C. Spiggle, council voted to contact the chairman of the State Water Control Board in an effort to raise the Appomattox priority for federal and state funding for construction of a new sewage treatment plant.

Council also approved a change of parking limits on N. Church Street, between Highland Avenue and Confederate Blvd. The limit was raised from one hour to three hours.

Mayor Henry Nash informed council that the town would pay a fosil fuel surcharge to Virginia Electric Power Company. The surcharge will mean almost 100 per cent increase in the town's electric bill.

Council also voted to give 1,120 feet of Dogwood Avenue and 302 feet of West Street to the State Highway Department so that the streets may be paved. When resurfacing is completed, Dogwood Avenue will be complete from Evergreen Avenue to Lee-Grant Avenue.

A little simple arithmetic about a Math major.

The cost of a higher education is getting higher. In fact, you could end up spending close to $20,000 to put your child through college.

So maybe you should consider U.S. Savings Bonds. They're one of the most dependable ways to build funds for an education.

All you have to do is join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Then an amount you specify is set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

Say your child is 3 years old now. If you buy $75 Bonds a month through Payroll Savings, by the time he's 18, you'll have $16,048 tucked away. A solid sum to get him started. See? A little simple arithmetic can add up to a lot.

Make the chances of your child's college education more secure. Join the Payroll Savings Plan now.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years 10 M. Use your Bonds as security for loans at your bank. Reinvest your Bonds and defer taxes. Interest and federal taxes, and federal taxes may be deferred until redemption.

Public Hearings On Proposed Lottery Set

The House of Delegates' General Laws Committee has appointed a Subcommittee to study State lotteries to be chaired by Mr. Ira M. Lechner, Arlington, Va. The Subcommittee has established a schedule of public hearings throughout the State to hear testimony on the various aspects of State lotteries.

The following places and dates comprise the subcommittee's schedule: Dec. 5 - Danville - City Council Chambers - 10 a.m.; Dec. 6 - Roanoke - City Council Chambers - 10 a.m.; Dec. 9 - Norfolk - City Council Chambers - 10 a.m.; Dec. 12 - Alexandria - City Council Chambers - 10 a.m.

The Subcommittee, created by House Resolution No. 15 of the 1974 Session, will be considering the most appropriate conditions and climate for the conduct of a State lottery. The study will include types of regulatory policy and the possible generation of revenues for the State and localities.

The Subcommittee wishes to hear testimony in the morning hours regarding the possible regulatory policies for the operation of a State lottery. The study will also will be used to receive information concerning the economic and social consequences of a State lottery.

The Subcommittee membership includes Delegate Ira M. Lechner, Arlington, Kenneth B. Rollins, Leesburg, Thomas Moss, Jr., Fairfax, and Warren E. Barry, Springfield.

Any member of the public interested in presenting information to the Subcommittee is invited to attend. Anyone wishing to reserve time before the Subcommittee may do so by contacting Mr. Laurens Sartoris or Ms. Constance D. Sprouse, Div. of Legislative Services, P. O. Box 3AG, Richmond, Va. 23208 (804-770-3591).

Whipped butter cannot be substituted for butter, as it is called for in recipes for cakes and cookies. That's because air has been incorporated into butter and there is actually less butter in the product that's whipped.

Children May Be Eligible for Social Security on Grandparent's Record

Some children may be eligible for social security benefits on a grandparent's earnings record but aren't getting payments because they haven't applied for them, according to social security officials here.

Children supported by a grandparent may be eligible for monthly payments if the grandparent is getting social security benefits. A child also may be eligible for payments if he or she was a dependent of a grandparent who died after working long enough under social security.

"Generally the child's payments must be deceased or disabled at the time the grandparent began getting social security payments or died," a spokesman said. "In some cases, children legally adopted by their grandparent can get social security payments."

A child can get payments until age 18--or age 22 in the case of full-time students who remain unmarried. People can get information about applying for benefits by calling or writing any social security office.

Remember to apply for a social security number several weeks before you need it. Call social security first to find out what you should bring with you.

questions and answers

SOCIAL SECURITY CARD 987-65-4320

Q. My father gets monthly supplemental security income payments. He recently took a job as a messenger. Is it true that he would have to pay a penalty if he doesn't report the change in his income?

A. Payments can be reduced for not reporting--or for a delay in reporting--a change in income, living arrangements, and other circumstances. The penalty is a reduction of $25 for the first failure or delay, $50 for the second, and $100 for each subsequent failure or delay. The penalty isn't applied to people's payments if they're not at fault for failing to report a change.

Q. If I win money in a contest, will it count against my supplemental security income payments?

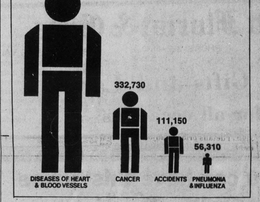
A. Cash prizes do count as income. But if your income for the month apart from earnings is $20 or less, including cash prizes, the prizes won't affect your supplemental security income payment.

Q. I plan to take a holiday job in early December. I've never had a social security number. How do I get one?

A. You can get information about applying for a number by calling or writing any social security office. Do it right away because it takes several weeks to get a social security number. Since you are applying for a social security number for the first time, you may be asked for evidence to prove your age, identity, and citizenship.

Leading Causes of Death in U.S.A.

SOURCE: 1971 estimates from National Center for Health Statistics, U.S. Public Health Service, DHEW.



HEART ATTACK, STROKE and other cardiovascular diseases kill more Americans than all other causes combined. In 1974 these diseases will claim more than one million lives—53% of all deaths. During February, the Heart Fund campaign will seek funds to reduce needless death and disability by telling the public how to recognize the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke and how to reduce their risk of these killer diseases.
